ONE OF THE OLDEST LIVING TWINS

The following is copied from the December 6th issue of the Devil's Lake Daily Journal, published at Devil's Lake, North Dakota. The subject person referred to is an uncle of Mr. George Bond, of Blairmore, so the article may be of some local interest:

"Richard N. Bond, of Walla Walla, Washington, said by the Associated Press to be one of the oldest living twins on the North American continent, has been visiting in Devil's Lake the past several days. His twin brother, Robert L., lives in Ottawa City, Canada, which is near Carleton Place, where they were born 89 years ago.

"R. N. Bond is enroute to his home from Aitken, Minn., where he was an honored guest of the I.O.O.F. of that city. He is the only living charter member of the Oddfellows' lodge there, and served it as its first noble grand and its first delegate to the Grand Lodge. Mr. Bond is also a charter member of the Masonic lodge there. The I.O.O.F. invited him to a celebration recently, paying all of his expenses and giving him a part on the program, which consisted of an address on the early history of the lodge.

"Mr. Bond, despite his 89 years, is surprisingly active, well versed on current affairs and an ardent sports fan. He left Canada when 14 years old, working in Syracuse, Michigan, Minnesota, Washington and California. Asked why he left Canada, he gives the quick reply: 'My twin brother was fifteen minutes my elder. He wanted to be boss, and I wouldn't stand for it, so I left for the U.S.' He attributes his activity to two things. The first that he was born in a healthy part of Canada, where they had to kill a man to start a graveyard, and the second that he had always voted the Republican ticket and still had a good clean conscience. 'And I'll continue to vote the Republican ticket,' said the Washingtonian who cast his first vote for U. S. Grant for president.

"While in Devil's Lake, Mr. Bond visited at the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Bond, and his great-granddaughter, Eileen Timboe. He also visited Fred and Mack Traynor, whose folks were also born at Carleton Place in Canada."

Lady Walwyn, wife of the governor of Newfoundland, attended the annual distribution of dinners to the underprivileged tendered by the Salvation Army at St. John's, Newfoundland, at Christmas time. On this occasion, a guard of honor was formed by the Life-Saving Guards and the Cadets of the Training College. Lady Walwyn paid warm tribute to the Army's work, and then presented the first of 350 hampers.

W. H. HAYSON PASSES

There passed away at her home in Coleman on Saturday morning last Mrs. Hayson, wife of W. H. Hayson, well known old-timer, at the age of 63.

The late Mrs. Hayson came to Fernie in 1904, where she was married to Mr. Hayson, who had arrived there the previous year. Two years later they moved to Coleman, where they have resided ever since. Mr. Hayson being employed with the International Coal Co.

Survivors are two daughters, Edith, teaching at Coleman, and Elsie (Mrs. J. R. Morgan), of Pincher Creek; and three sons, Idris, proprietor of the Bellevue Drug Store; Herbert, employed at the International mine, and Alwyn, who operates a drug store in Coleman.

The remains were laid to rest in Coleman on Wednesday afternoon, following service conducted by Rev. H. J. Bevan at St. Paul's United church.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE TO BE LAUNCHED

Captain Watson, of the Salvation Army, was a visitor last week at Calgary, for an officers' council. The purpose of the meeting was to consider plans for a new financial campaign to be known as "The National War Service Campaign." This will be in operation throughout Canada from March 11th to 20th, inclusive. The object is to raise $1,000,000, which will provide for the Salvation Army's war work, and also cover their Self-Denial and Harvest Festival appeals.

Alberta's quota for the campaign is $75,000, and the Pass towns will be asked to contribute their share towards this worthy cause. A campaign committee will be set up, with a general chairman, and under this advisory board, various sub-committees will be governed. These sub-committees will organize teams, who in turn will solicit the assistance of the general public. Captain Watson will act as campaign director throughout the effort.

A list of the campaign executives, and further general details will be announced at a later date.

PASS TRUSTEES MEET

The school trustees of the Crows' Nest Pass met in general session at the Blairmore school on Wednesday night, with a good attendance of trustees from Hillcrest, Bellevue, Coleman and Blairmore, President S. G. Bannan in the chair.

The question of transporting pupils to the annual school athletic meet and the musical festivals was discussed, and an arrangement made whereby each school will participate in a pool covering the expenses.

A motion of interest to teachers was unanimously passed, preserving the teacher's position and seniority in the school in case of enlistment in His Majesty's forces.

Considerable trouble has arisen in connection with assessments in the various districts, since these assessments have been made by the official assessors from Edmonton, and the Bellevue school board presented two resolutions covering this matter. One deals with the right of a school board to appeal an assessment as a body of trustees, and the other demands that any information given to the assessors showing values of plants or properties should also be given to the board of trustees in the district affected. Both these resolutions were endorsed by the association, and will be forwarded to the Alberta School Trustees Association for consideration at their annual convention in Calgary.

Secretary W. H. Chappell was elected as delegate to represent the Crows' Nest Pass Association at the annual provincial convention in Calgary on January 24th.

CROWS' NEST CHAPTER, I.O.D.E., WAR WORK

The last regular meeting of the Crows' Nest Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, was held Tuesday evening, January 9th. This being the first meeting of the new year—a year of dark days ahead, days of anxiety, sacrifice, suffering and hope—the war work of the local chapter and the Order was given very serious attention.

Mrs. S. McKay, convener for the war work for the chapter, reported that the total net proceeds derived from the whist drives held before Christmas, plus donations from people interested in helping the chapter with its work, amounted to $120.68; that $115.43 had been paid for wool, leaving a balance on hand of $5.25 in the chapter's war work fund.

A considerable number of sweaters and pairs of socks have already been knitted by the members and a number of ladies and girls of the town who are most generously assisting.

It having been brought to the attention of the chapter that some of the men who have enlisted from Blairmore are yet in need of sweaters and socks, the secretary was instructed to make enquiries at once, and the chapter will supply those men with same.

The regent, Mrs. R. Simister, on behalf of the men who have enlisted from town, conveyed to the chapter their most sincere thanks and appreciation for the packages received by them at Christmas. These gifts were purchased with money from the general fund.

The I.O.D.E. has made arrangements for distributing directly its supplies to the soldiers here in Canada and overseas. The Alberta soldiers will be the first to receive attention from the provincial chapter.

The local chapter will continue to meet every Tuesday evening (except the second Tuesday of each month) for doing war work, at the present time knitting. A sincere invitation is extended to any ladies interested in helping with this work to come to these meetings.

Plans were also made to continue with the whist drives, the proceeds of which will be put into the war work fund and used for purchasing supplies to carry on. As stated before, the balance in the war work fund is only $5.25, and money is urgently needed to augment the fund to enable the chapter and its co-workers to carry on the work so important and necessary. The next whist drive will be held in the Oliva hall on Wednesday, January 17th, at 8 p.m.

The extent of the war work that can be done by the chapter depends on the support given by the people of Blairmore. It was the enthusiastic support accorded the chapter before Christmas that enabled it to purchase its wool for knitting. Offers of assistance with the whist drives, such as refreshments, will be greatly appreciated. Any one wishing to help, kindly leave word with Mrs. R. Simister.

Let us remember the fact that it is to preserve family life, freedom to live and to have without fear the good and simple things that lie at the heart of the normal human life, that the Empire is at war. As citizens of that Empire, let each and all of us do our bit, no matter how small, remembering "In Unity is Strength."

In closing, the officers and members of Crows' Nest Chapter, I.O.D.E., wish to sincerely thank the ladies and girls who are devoting their time to knitting, the local newspaper and all those who have so generously supported the chapter in the past. We trust that this loyal support will be continued during these trying times.

The local chapter of the I.O.D.E. will stage a whist drive at the Oliva hall on the night of Wednesday next, January 17th, proceeds for war-work funds.

POZZI-KNAPMAN

Of much interest to their many friends in The Pass was the wedding solemnized at St. Anne's rectory, Blairmore, on Saturday evening, December 30th, when Lillian, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Knapman, became the bride of Mr. Louis Pozzi, elder son of Mrs. and the late E. J. Pozzi, of Blairmore.

The bride was lovely, clad in a gown of turquoise blue crepe with matching accessories, and wearing a corsage of pink roses, and was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. G. Foot, of Bellevue, who chose for the occasion a dress of rust crepe and wearing a corsage of 'mums. Mr. Joseph Pozzi, brother, supported the groom.

Following the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Father Dunbar, of Coleman, a reception was held at the Greenhill Grill, where the table was decorated and lighted by four large silver candelabra with pink tapers, and centred with a three-tier wedding cake amid pink and white carnations. The happy young couple have taken up residence in Medicine Hat, where the groom is engaged as youth training director.—E.S.

McCULLOCH-CAMERON

Mrs. J. B. Cameron wishes to announce the marriage of her niece, Miss Jessie Cameron, Burmis, to Mr. John A. McCulloch, of Lundbreck. The quiet but pretty wedding took place at Blairmore United church on January 8th, at 2.30 p.m., performed by Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A.

The bride, who looked very pretty and carried a bouquet of carnations, was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Duncan Cameron, while her aunt, Mrs. Cameron, attended as matron of honor. Mr. John J. Cameron, brother of the bride, was best man.

An Offspring Of War?

War with its train of bloodshed and ruin, its loss of life and destruction of property is always devastating in greater or less degree to all participants, but it does sometimes bring some benefits to the belligerents, if they take advantage of the opportunities it may afford and learn the lessons which it may teach.

The democracies which are waging a conflict forced upon them by the foes of liberty and freedom hope that out of the present conflict will arise security for the nations. That is their main objective and if this is achieved the war will not have been in vain.

While this is the all important goal, it is quite possible that the very exigencies of the war may confer lasting benefits on any or all of the belligerents in some form or another, some of which cannot now be foreseen or even guessed. There are others which may be visualized and one of these is the possibility that one of the results of the war may well be the establishment of the Hudson Bay route, not only as the shortest ocean route between Europe and prairies of Western Canada, as is already well known, but as the safest, the fastest, the most practical and the most economic.

To those few who are well acquainted with all the facts and who have made a close study of the route via Churchill and its possibilities, these potentialities are accepted facts, but either they are not generally known or are largely ignored. All that may be changed by the necessities of the war and it is quite within the realm of possibility that the close of war may see the Hudson Bay route definitely established as the most sensible, practicable and profitable commercial artery between the west and the European continent as a result of its extensive use during the period of the war. Two or three years of war may do more for the development of the route than the entire period of its operation to date.

An Important Finding

Some such thought must have been in the back of the mind of Colonel F. J. James, who retired as president of the On-to-the-Bay Association at a meeting in Regina in December when, in his report of the Association's activities of the past three years he referred briefly to the visit of a British warship to Churchill in 1937 and added: "No doubt the information received on that voyage will prove of value to the British Admiralty now that we are engaged in war, and it is confidently expected it will create further business for the Hudson Bay route, providing of course, the war continues."

Since that time confirmation is lent to this prospect in the report of Dr. Alexander D. Bajkov, Russian scientist at Churchill, that the port can be kept open almost the year round. There will be considerable confidence in this report since it comes from a graduate of the University of Manitoba and a prominent hydrologist and biologist, who has made an extensive study of the Hudson Bay district from his private research station at Churchill. In his report Dr. Bajkov says:

"Hudson Bay and Hudson Strait never freeze in winter. The ice from Fox Channel, considered in some quarters as the chief menace to the extension of the Hudson Bay route, is not a determining factor at all.

"The local ice condition at Churchill determines the closing date. The open water during the severest part of winter is only one-half to three miles from Churchill and I can see the possibility of navigation for nearly all year."

To which C. M. Simpson of Winnipeg, vice-president of the On-to-the-Bay Association, adds the pertinent comment: "Our Association does not consider the operation of the northern route has been a success to date, but the war should bring out its true value."

Work To Be Done

Beyond bringing to the attention of the authorities the facts as they come into its possession from time to time the On-to-the-Bay Association can do very little to promote the development of the Bay route as long as the country is at war, since the control of all shipping has passed into the hands of the Admiralty.

For the same reason and because of the necessity of withholding information which might be of value to the enemy, the public and even the membership of the Association is not likely to be kept posted as to the extent of use which is being or will be made of this northern sea lane until after peace has been signed.

This does not, however, mean that the Association should go into cold storage for the duration of the war. On the contrary, as Col. James suggested in his report, it should remain active by pressing the British as well as the Canadian authorities "steadily but persistently to use the route to the fullest extent possible."

By keeping the organization intact and active, as far as it is possible to do so, the Association will be in a position immediately on the cessation of hostilities to redouble its efforts to have the control of the facilities at Churchill handed over to a Western management.

Taking Up Work Again

Noted French Surgeon Will Serve In War Hospitals

Dr. Serge Voronoff, French surgeon who startled the world 20 years ago with his monkey-gland "rejuvenation" operation, is returning to New York in the Italian liner Conte di Savoia to direct bone and skin grafting operations on wounded soldiers in France. During the first Great War he worked on the rehabilitation of shell-torn French soldiers through the grafting of bones from monkeys.

When the liner Athena sailed Sept. 3, she took with her a consignment of Grade XII. text books for Alberta schools.

Russian Division Trapped

Writer Compares Recent Event With Charge Of The Light Brigade
Machine, high explosive and poison gas have robbed war of much of its glamor but from an ice-bound lake in Finland comes a story worthy of Tennyson's pen. If the Victorian poet were alive he might well use it as the basis of a modernized version for his immortal "Charge of the Light Brigade."

A Russian division was trapped on the ice and completely surrounded by Finnish troops who shot it to pieces with machine-guns and artillery. Tennyson's poem recounts the fate of 600 British cavalrymen who, in the Crimean war, charged into the mouths of Russian guns and suffered a similar fate.

One incident took place in the south of Russia, the other on Russia's northern frontier. In one the Russians were the victors, in the other the victims. Tennyson said somebody blundered in ordering the British light brigade to charge. The Russo-Finnish war appears to be a whole series of blunders.

Describing the plight of the light brigade, Tennyson wrote:

"Cannon to right of them,
Cannon to left of them,
Cannon in front of them vol-
leyed and thundered."

But the Russian division fighting the Finns had cannon behind them as well.

"Boldly they rode and well," he wrote of the British horsemen.

"Into the jaws of death,
Into the mouth of hell."

But against the Finns the Russians had no horses and did not ride. They placed their tanks in a circle and sought shelter behind them while Finnish guns thundered from four sides.

How Poem Originated

Maple Leaf Gave Alexander Muir Idea For Famous Song

The Toronto Telegram says: Alexander Muir was strolling with George Leslie near the Leslie nurseries in Toronto one day in autumn of 1867. On the autumn-tinted maple leaf fluttered from a tree to Mr. Leslie's coat sleeve. He tried to flick it off, but it continued to cling. Picking it off to throw away, he was struck by the beautiful coloring, and drew to the attention of his friend.

Knowing Mr. Muir's literary ability, Mr. Leslie said: "You have been writing verses; why not write a song about the maple leaf?"

Two hours later the lines which make Alexander Muir's name famous were told to Mr. Leslie in the Leslie-ville post office. The following day the new poem was recited to Mrs. Muir and the children, and so pleased the former that she suggested reciting the words to make sure that she could sing them. That was the origin of "The Maple Leaf Forever."

How Strong Are They

History Records No Dictator Who Could Survive Defeat

How strong was Julius Caesar, Napoleon, Czar Nicholas, Francis Joseph, Don Pedro of Brazil. And how did these and many others of their kind play the fatal role of their careers but in an anti-climax sorrowful, humiliating and tragic?

How strong is the strong man? Hitler and Mussolini are said to be closely guarded at all times in their homes as officers and when they appear in public, and Stalin is reported to be afraid even of his own physician so that several doctors are called to examine several "Stalins."

The strong man is strong only so long as his people are more heartily with him, and so long as his arms remain victorious. Otherwise he is as weak as the other "strong men" who have gone before through the many centuries of recorded history. Memory is challenged to find a dictator who did not "come to a cropper" before he passed out of the picture.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

Underground Tube

Abandoned Tunnel In London Now Used As Air Raid Shelter

The first deep-level tube railway in the world is to be resurrected from its long rest and used as an air raid shelter.

The tunnel, running 80 feet below ground along half a mile of South London, was abandoned 48 years ago. Now, with three months' work put into it, it will accommodate, in comfort and safety, 8,000 people. An air conditioning plant has been installed, first aid posts provided and there will be seats for all.

The cost will be about $200,000, but even that will only work out at $25 per head as against $50 per head for ordinary concrete shelters.

Army Journals

Many New Publications Edited By Canadian Active Service Forces

Dozens of new publications ranging from roughly mimeographed sheets to printed newspapers are springing to life in units of the Canadian Active Service Forces across Canada.

Many units now have their own papers, published weekly, fortnightly or monthly, filled with news of the doings in the unit, wit, cartoons, and announcements. Others are in talent for writing and drawing among the men in khaki is getting a chance of expression.

Regimental newspapers are encouraged by military authorities as a means of promoting a healthy spirit among the troops. Some of the papers are distributed free, some at small charge. Most carry a little advertising and all are published at no cost to the public.

Typical of publications springing up are the following: "The Rifleman," of the British Columbia Regiment (Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles) at Vancouver, a two-page, mimeographed weekly bulletin.

"O P" of the 77th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, at Moose Jaw, running to eight pages of mimeographed news, comment and picture.

"The Perth Regiment News," at Stratford, Ont., also is mimeographed.

"The Crankshaft" of the 1st mechanical transport vehicle reception depot, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, at Toronto, printed on smooth paper and distributed monthly.

"On The Way" of the 20th and 108th Field Batteries, Royal Canadian Artillery, at Lethbridge, Alta., a six-page printed paper published twice a month.

"The Feed Line", of the supply and patrol company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Hamilton, Ont., a small size mimeographed sheet, liberally supplied with cartoons.

"The New Brazier" of the 1st Battalion the Canadian Scottish regiment, at Otter Point, B.C., a revival of a paper of the same name published in France by the 16th Battalion, C.E.F., which the Scottish unit perpetuates.

Empire Stands Solid

Although Hitler Hoped War Would Split Commonwealth Of Nations

It was a blunder of German strategy prior to 1914 to assume that the fabric of the British Empire would crumble beneath the stresses of war. And the Germans, whether their emblem be the Imperial eagle or the wrongly-placed swastika, evidently learn few lessons. It was a premise of Hitler's present plan that the outbreak of conflict would split the British Commonwealth of Nations, whereas it has served to cement it more strongly than before.

Storm Hard On Birds

Large Number Died Of Starvation In Ottawa Valley

The birds who forgot to go south for the winter and remained in and around Ottawa took a beating from a December ice storm in Ottawa valley.

Large numbers of small birds, including snow buntings and finches, must have died unnoticed from starvation when the rain froze the trees and shrubbery, cutting off food supplies, officials of the Ottawa Field Naturalists Club said.

Extent of the destruction of bird life was revealed partly by the Christmas bird census taken annually by groups of observers all over North America. The Ottawa club survey showed that on Dec. 24 there were only 139 species of small native birds. This was less than one-third the number on the same date last year.

"Some birds may have moved elsewhere, but probably not many did so," a club official said. "The catastrophe (freezing rain) occurred so late in the year that the instinct to migrate, which sends hosts of birds southward in autumn, had practically ended for the season."

"Here and there some groups survived, either because they were lucky enough to find something to eat in sheltered spots or because some kind human hands helped."

May Be Unnecessary

Londoneses Eating Eighth Daily Meal Must Supply Own Butter

The food ministry announced restaurants would be allowed to serve butter—a pat of one-sixth of an ounce—with these meals under the rationing plan starting Jan. 8.

Breakfast, lunch, midday dinner, tea, high tea, late dinner and supper. If you can eat any other meal at a restaurant, you will have to bring your own butter or do without.

Idea Not New

Northern Oil Refinery

To Begin Operations 1,200 Miles North Of Edmonton

A new oil refinery soon to begin operation near Fort Norman, 1,200 miles north of Edmonton in the North West Territories, is expected to bring a sharp reduction in fuel costs for aviation, transport and mining companies in that region.

An order-in-council passed by the Dominion government will waive a 10 per cent. royalty the oil company would ordinarily have to pay on its products, and, in return, the refinery will sell high octane aviation gasoline at 37 cents a gallon plus tax and fuel oil at 33 cents a gallon. Aviation fuel up to now has been freighted in from British Columbia, and the heavy freight rates have made the price in the neighborhood of $1.50 a gallon.

The refinery of the Northwest Company, Limited, a subsidiary of Imperial Oil Company, has just been completed at Norman wells, 42 miles below Fort Norman on the Mackenzie river, and is expected to start work early this year.

Oil was first discovered in the region by Sir Alexander Mackenzie in 1789, but Imperial Oil started working the first well in 1914. The company now undertakes to drill an additional well at Norman if required to meet the local demand.

CANADA'S WAR FINANCING

In concert with the general policies pursued by Britain and France, Canada is seeking to avoid the financial and economic pitfalls which marked the last war; by cautious policy, now she seeks to avoid erratic and ruinous price movements during the war and complexities afterwards. It seems well recognized that the real material cost of war is paid in goods and services while the war is on. The monetary cost of those goods and services can be provided only out of the national income. The national income is, of course, the sum total of the dollar value of the goods and services produced. As far as is reasonable, these monetary costs will be provided out of taxation. That part of the financial cost which current taxation cannot possibly provide can only be secured by rational borrowing—and the borrowing, just like the general cost of the war, should be spread as widely as possible over the whole population. This war—much more so than any war in history—is being fought on the economic front as well as on the military front. Sound principles demand a virtual "pay as you go" policy. In its borrowing, what the country really needs and aims to do is to borrow the real savings of the people at as low a rate of interest as is reasonable; to owe as little as possible of the monetary cost of the war when the war is done; and to owe it, chiefly if not entirely, to the people of this country. The country's bonds being held at home are thus quite unlikely to constitute any onerous or insoluble problem for the future. The earnings go to Canadian people who, of course, when the rate of interest is considered, will not wish to profit unduly out of the country's extremity. Borrowing the real savings of the people avoids entirely any course which would tend to convert a reasonable monetary expansion into an inflation. Canada seeks to finance the war effort in such a manner that tax increases may be borne without undue strain and without any material reduction in the standard of living for anybody. At the same time Canada seeks to carry out its reasonable borrowings to maintain maximum wartime productive effort without skyrocketing the price level and thus adding undue burdens to the cost of living. In other words, Canada is striving to avoid the economic pitfalls that the last war disclosed. She is seeking to protect the Canadian people by applying the lessons learned during and as a result of the last war; making use of the wider economic knowledge which now prevails and utilizing to the full the best advice of a corps of experts second to none in the world, found on the staff of the department of finance and of the Bank of Canada.

Heading in a Calgary paper reads: "800 lbs of Turkey Eaten by 'Gitties.'" Then, just to be mean, Bill remarks: "Well, why couldn't they eat that much? No one on earth this side of Mahatma Gandhi has such abdominal freedom!"

Announcement of the arrival of a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Sid. White has been made. Mr. White was able to resume his duties as teacher and vice-principal with the opening of the school term on Wednesday of last week. The heir's next birthday will be January 9th, 1941.

CANADA'S FIRST WAR LOAN

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—In preparation for Canada's first war loan effort of the new world war, a national war-loan committee and a national subscription committee are in progress of formation across Canada, and will be organized in time for the initial effort on the economic war front.

The national war-loan committee, under the chairmanship of the Hon. J. L. Ralston, K.C., M.P., minister of finance, will be composed of five former ministers of finance, Canada's nine provincial treasurers, and more than 200 representative citizens, resident from coast to coast. The five former ministers of finance are: the Rt. Hon. Sir Thomas White, the Rt. Hon. Sir Henry Drayton, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Hon. E. N. Rhodes and the Hon. Charles A. Dunning. The nine provincial treasurers are: Hon. Thane A. Campbell, P.E.I.; Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Nova Scotia; Hon. C. T. Richard, New Brunswick; Hon. J. A. Matheson, Quebec; Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario; Hon. Stuart S. Garson, Manitoba; Hon. W. J. Patterson, Saskatchewan; Hon. Solon E. Low, Alberta, and Hon. John Hart, British Columbia.

Mr. Dunning has also accepted the chairmanship of the national subscription committee, which will assist the national war-loan committee, and will be concerned with the securing of larger subscriptions of a national character. It will be responsible for organizing the work of canvassing the larger institutions and corporations, in addition to stimulating the broader sale of the bonds to the public. This committee will have the active co-operation of investment dealers throughout Canada, a number of whom have already done considerable work in the preliminary organization.

The first war loan will provide Canadians, as a whole, with their first opportunity to participate in Canada's war effort. To enable everyone to subscribe, it is indicated that bonds will have denominations as low as $50 each for smaller subscriptions.

In announcing the acceptance by Mr. Dunning of the chairmanship of the national subscription committee, Mr. Ralston said, "Canada is indeed fortunate that Mr. Dunning has agreed to undertake this important task. His experience as minister of finance and also in connection with the victory loan campaigns during the last war make him the ideal man for the job."

In bygone days it was the custom to wish the young ladies better luck during Leap Year, but when one peruses the wedding columns of the daily and weekly papers, this now appears to be entirely unnecessary. Leap Year or no leap year, the girls all appear to get their man.—Dremheller Review.

WAR CENSORSHIP OF PRESS, RADIO, MAIL

Although Canadians are scarcely aware of censorship, it is operative through all channels of communication. The main purposes are to prevent information reaching the enemy, and prevent anything adversely affecting Canada's war effort.

Each of the different agencies for transmitting information—the press, the radio, the mails, the movies, cable, telegraph and wireless, presents its own problem to censorship authorities. Each is attended to by officials representing different departments of government who meet on the co-ordination committee for exchange of information and settlement of questions of policy.

Cable censorship, as distinguished from other forms, involves the reading of practically all messages leaving Canada. For example, a person writing on a ship might cable a friend in England that he was arriving at a certain port on a certain date, unwittingly giving the enemy information which would enable them to torpedo the ship.

In press censorship on the other hand, there is no prior reading of news dispatches or editorial matter. Publishers, editors and writers have been advised of the regulations and are presumed to know what material is forbidden.

Whatever censorship of mails is required is attended to by post office department officials. John A. Sullivan, deputy postmaster-general, represents the department on the committee.

Practically all Canadian provinces maintain machinery for censorship of moving pictures and these authorities are relied upon to see that no undesirable matter reaches the public on the screen.

REV. JOHN WOOD, OF HILLCREST, ACCEPTS STAVELEY APPOINTMENT

Rev. John Wood, who for several years has been in charge of United Church work at Hillcrest, has accepted appointment as minister to Staveley and Parkland congregations, filling the unexpired term of the late Rev. J. C. McLennan, and preached his farewell sermon at Hillcrest on Sunday last.

He and his family left Hillcrest early this week for his new parish, and is followed by the best wishes of his numerous friends throughout this district.

Services at Hillcrest for the time being will be in charge of Rev. Richard Upton, of Bellevue.

Referring to a New Year dance party, a newspaper remarks: "If the good spirits and friendliness that marked the party could just be carried on throughout the year." Yes, particularly the good spirits!

CANADIAN LEGION

WAR SERVICES

(Official Weekly News Letter)

Members of Canada's armed forces who have enrolled for instruction in the various subjects being taught by the education branch of the Canadian Legion War Services, are finding the study of conversational and military German much more interesting than they had anticipated.

At Calgary, for example, a sort of "post-graduate" course has been instituted by Dr. Francis Owen, professor of modern languages in the University of Alberta, and with the help of a specially compiled text-book they are acquiring more than a sketchy knowledge of the subject.

Part of the course in German includes a list of questions for interrogating prisoners. If a Canadian wants to know a Nazi's name, he would say, "Wie heissen sie?" And if he wanted to get the prisoner's views of the war he would ask, "Was denken sie von der krieg?" which means "What do you think of the war?" It is not improbable that "Möchten sie eine zigarette haben?" which means "Would you like a cigarette?" will be asked frequently, if that mainstay of life is as scarce in Germany as reported.

Along military lines, the list includes such expressions as "Unterseeboot" for U-boat; "dasflugzeug" for airplane, and "kontakt" for contact. In many cases the German expressions are nearly identical to the English. For example, "der general," "der feld-marschall" and "der gasmask." Others are superb tongue-twisters, "Maschinengewehr-schutz" which means machine gun, and "artillerie-unterstützung" for artillery support.

Canadian fighting men no doubt can "click their heels" a good deal faster than they'll ever be able to say it in German, for in that language it is "haken zusammenschlagen." "Attention" is a little easier, being "achtung." When they want to tell prisoners to put cigarettes and pipes out or to be careful, they will say "Zigaretten und pfeifen aus" and "vorsicht."

One thing they are just now finding out, however, is that Herr Hitler hasn't a monopoly on the title "der fuhrer." The same expression also applies to an airplane pilot. And "der kompaniefuhrer," to mix things up a little, means company commander!

POLITICAL TRICKERY

IN ALBERTA

Alberta's Social Credit government has been guilty of many mind-benders, but one of the most scandalous is the use of public funds for purely political purposes.

Early in their career, Premier Aberhart and his associates made use of public funds to finance distribution of political propaganda. Now that an election is drawing near, they are at it again.

Apparently Premier Aberhart intends the Alberta taxpayer to finance his election campaign. Political pamphlets prepared by the Social Credit Board, and printed and distributed by the Government Publicity Bureau, are being given wide distribution. One such pamphlet, "The Records Tell The Story," has been distributed to the number of 15,000 or more. Yet the Edmonton Journal finds it on examination to be filled with the most flagrant misrepresentations. It is a deliberate piece of political propaganda paid for by public funds and bearing the Coat of Arms of the province.

Fortunately, Alberta has a live, independent press, which has been prompt in uncovering Mr. Aberhart's deception, and has not hesitated to expose this newest form of political trickery.—The Financial Post.

A Call TO SERVICE on the Economic Front

"Materials and money count for so much in this war that a resolute, loyal and enthusiastic economic front line may be the determining factor."

W. J. Ralston
MINISTER OF FINANCE

To your restless question "When can I help win this war?"—the answer is NOW. On Monday next, the Government of the Dominion of Canada will offer the First War Loan. The purpose of this Loan is to provide money to carry on the war, not only on the battlefields, but all along the Economic Front.

Let us explain what the Economic Front means. It means a war in which the entire natural, industrial and financial resources of the country are used to defeat the enemy. It means a "total war" in which every citizen takes a part, in which his personal resources must support those of the Nation.

In such a war, one of the chief weapons is money. Where is this money to come from? There is only one answer. It must come—and come voluntarily—from the savings of our people. The difference between us and the Germans is that we, of our own free will, lend our money—it is not ruthlessly taken away.

This is your opportunity to do your part in this struggle against Hitlerism. The eyes of the world are upon you, upon Canada, one of the strongest members of the British Commonwealth. Canadians must show that their strength, their courage and their resources are all in this fight against "brute force, bad faith, injustice, aggression and persecution."

The news of the success of this Loan must go ringing round the world.

Be ready to buy War Loan Bonds. They will have the proven safety and salability of Dominion of Canada obligations. Any Investment Dealer or Chartered Bank will take your subscription. The quicker the economic war is won, the greater will be the saving of human lives... the swifter the collapse of the enemy.

(The Blainmore Enterprise, 1922)

Jan. 12.—Blainmore curling rinks have been reorganized, with the following as skip: Jack Hughes, Dr. Oliver, A. E. Ferguson, Joe McDougall, J. H. Farmer, W. Bird, L. L. Morgan, James Crowder, Dan McKay, J. E. Upton, J. B. Wilson and J. P. O'Neill.

A railway carload of beer was seized by the police at Blainmore this week, as it was being unloaded after midnight. Sergt. Nicholson was in charge of the police effort.

W. McVey has been elected deputy mayor of the town for the first quarter of 1922.

Firemen collected the sum of $123.76 for fighting the fire which destroyed the Budd building and damaged neighboring property.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Osborne, of Blainmore, was awarded a first prize in a beauty contest staged by the Famous Lasky Film Service of Toronto. Miss Osborne was now residing at High River.

W. H. Chappell was this week installed at W. M. of Rocky Mountain Lodge, A. F. & A. M., with A. R. Granger as secretary. R. Orlinton was installed as W. M. of Sentinel Lodge at Hillcrest.

The members of the Lethbridge Hockey Club visited Mel Rhynas at the Blainmore hospital, presenting him with a bouquet of carnations. Mel met with an accident that will put him out of the goal posts for some time.

Protests were being registered against a proposal to drain irrigation water from Waterford Lakes.

Rev. Major W. R. Walker, on account of ill health, has decided to return to England. He and his family came to Blainmore a year ago from High River.

An audience of 1050 witnessed the Blainmore-Tabor hockey game at the Blainmore arena this week, and 970 saw the Blainmore-Lethbridge tilt.

Rob Barnhill, who recently attended a Tax and Trail Ranger rally at Edmonton, had charge of the United church service on Sunday night last, and gave a graphic account of the provincial boys' parliament session. Blainmore was leading the six-team Crow Hockey League.

I AM THE CALENDAR

I have two missions: one of utility, one of sentiment.

I am the symbol of time, combining the past, the present and the future.

All the world looks at me, talks about me, and regulates its business and social life by me.

No letter is ever written, no book ever published, no money ever coined, that does not bear my imprint. I am the one thing that the world must constantly consult.

I ask for display space in your place of business or your home. In return I guarantee to be useful, and I hope to be decorative.

I admit that in that space I will constantly work for my employer, telling you and your friends who they are and what they have to sell.

I am one of their salesmen, anxious to impress you favorably and to remind you faithfully on each day of the year that my employer values your business.

But I am more—I am their ambassador of good will; I carry their best wishes for your health, happiness and prosperity to you, their friends.

—Rolph-Clark-Stone.

It is estimated that 19 per cent of all the drivers involved in fatal accidents in the United States are guilty of speeding.

To give you an idea of the German mind, we quote the following recent statement by Dr. Robert Ley, the Nazi Labor Front leader: "The German race, that is our faith. It has higher rights than all others. A German laborer is worth more than an English lord. We have the divine right to rule, and we shall assure ourselves of that right."

Social Credit Dividends

In a letter addressed to the taxpayers of Alberta, the provincial Liberal Association recently sent out the following figures quoted below. These figures are taken from the public accounts, therefore, they are absolutely correct. These figures also reveal that,

Total payment to members	1935	1936	1937
of legislature	$178,402.66	$208,084.02	20%

Salaries of ministers	48,505.46	50,500.00	4%
Miscellaneous payments to members	1,269.00	17,798.76	1300%

In the fiscal year of 1939, miscellaneous payments to members of the legislature totalled $17,798.76. Fifteen Social Credit members received $17,798.76.

The public accounts show:	In 1938	In 1939	Total

L. D. Byrne received	7,499.00	6,000.00	13,499.00

Deducting the statutory indemnities from this grand total leaves a payment to these men of $47,930.42 in the two years. This would provide the daily pay of one hundred and one privates in the Canadian army for one year. A return in the house on March 21st, 1938, shows the total payments to G. F. Powell between September 2nd, 1937, and February 2nd, 1938, as $3,618. This payment is for a period of approximately five months. At the close of the five months, Mr. Powell commenced a six months' term in Fort Saskatchewan jail for defamatory libel, serving approximately three months. Upon his release he received a bonus of $4,000. L. D. Byrne is under contract for a period of years at a remuneration of $6,000 a year. In addition to this remuneration he received special travelling expenses from Great Britain. We defy anyone to name one service Mr. Byrne has given which is of benefit to the people of Alberta.

HOW TO GET ALONG ## WITH YOURSELF

If you are finding difficulty in getting along with yourself and others, you may be helped by reading the paragraphs that follow:

To be able to face the daily requirements of life with equanimity and a confidence that one is equal to the challenge of the day, or at least capable of accepting defeat philosophically.

To be able to face realities, not run away from them through subterfuges.

To be able to take one's place in everyday life without more or less occasional friction in relationships with other persons.

To be able to look with reasonable tolerance upon the annoyances which are inevitable in every life.

To want to win, but to be able to lose gracefully.

To cherish no grudges.

To seek advancement, but without feverish grasping for more wealth, power, fame or success than one has capacity to win or to lose.

To be able to laugh at oneself, perhaps the greatest evidence of a well-controlled mind.

To accord to others a right to their own viewpoints and ideas.

Ralph Moody, blacksmith at the Red Deer Valley Coal Co. mine at Namdook, dropped dead on Thursday last. He was well known as a baseball umpire, and was 32 years of age.

A competition will take place at the next regular meeting of the Blainmore Tobacco Spitters' Society. A number of complaints from business people and private citizens against spitters improperly placed will be considered at the meeting. John Hunbue is president, and Bill Beestall secretary-treasurer.

although the people of Alberta have not received the dividends promised them by their Social Credit members in 1935, the Social Credit members have made certain of dividends for themselves. The public accounts show:

SOMETHING WRONG

SOMEWHERE

Surely something is radically wrong when a person can ascend a platform in Alberta, or anywhere in Canada, and announce that the banned "Western Clarion" is not only to be circulated in Blainmore and The Pass, but eventually will be printed in The Crows' Nest Pass.

The general opinion is that the person making such statement knows a whole lot about the Clarion's circulation in this district.

It is only about seven weeks ago that a local lady solicited a subscription from The Enterprise to the Clarion.

Coleman Canadians suffered another defeat on Wednesday night at Lethbridge, 3-2, administered by the Leafs. Coleman has had a tough uphill climb, because of lack of ice early in the season, but the boys still look forward to attaining a higher notch in the final league standing.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

The New Year holiday reaped a toll in the United States of one death by violence for every day in 1935—a total of 363.

Dogs Work In Belgium

Humane Laws To Protect These Animals Are Very Strict

In Belgium, a small country with only an area of 1,752 square miles and a population of 8,350,859 there are according to a recent count well over 685,000 dogs. . . This many dogs, as one might suppose, are not kept as pets but used to perform various kinds of work. . . In most of the provinces in Belgium, dogs are used to pull light carts of bread and milk and other commodities of the street peddler. . . Strict humane laws protect the dogs. . . One law provides that any dog pulling a cart must be harnessed in such a manner so that he can lie down at each stop and rest his head on his paws. . . In stormy weather, the driver of a cart must see to it that the dog is provided with a hat or blanket on which to lie down. . . Dogs in Belgium are not only regarded as a man's best friend, but treated like one of the family. . . They are provided with plenty of good food and better treated, perhaps, than most dogs in other parts of the world.

British Lighthouses

Keepers Are Supplied With Reading Matter Through Kindness Of Airmen

This war has one consolation for the men in lighthouses on Britain's rocky coasts. Men of the Royal Air Force Coastal Command drop newspapers, magazines and other reading matter on their daily patrols.

The fliers started supplying reading matter because the lighthouse keepers always gave a cheery wave as the aircraft passed.

Before dropping his package, the pilot flies low over the "target," with engine throttled back, while the navigator waits at the open window with gitta. When the pilot shouts "now," the parcel is dropped.

Sometimes packages slide off the rock into the sea and the lighthouse men fish them out. One keeper has a minute garden on which the pilots take pride in scoring a "direct hit".

More Pronunciations

Hard These Days To Know What Is Really Correct

We have been informed that the correct way of pronouncing "Monrovia" is "Mon-ree-vee," with a "w" and not a "v," pronounced in the middle paragraph. Why is it that we insist on calling Lough, Ligh, Lighorn after the popular chicken breed when the folks know it by the sassy euphonic name, "Laymore"? Paris, France, is just Paris as spelled in English, but the French pronunciation is always given Calais, the loss of which caused the heart of an English Queen to bleed.—St. Catharines Standard.

Not all kingfishers eat fish; some live on insects, lizards, and snakes.

Airways Busy

Business In Major Producing Mines Has Been Fettered

Fears that the outbreak of war would seriously cripple commercial air transportation business in the mining areas of Canada's vast northwest have proved groundless so far, according to commercial air lines.

When the war clouds broke over Europe early in September hard-rock miners predicted that many promising mines would be forced to suspend operations because of increased operating costs. Air transportation companies, majority of which rely on mining interests for their payloads, tightened their belts and waited for the drop in revenue.

But the anticipated depression has failed to materialize, say officials of Canadian Airways, Wings Limited and Starrat Airways and Transportation, Ltd., whose airplanes flown to the far stretches of the Arctic circle in northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba and to lonely James Bay points in northwestern Ontario.

"The war hasn't interfered with our business at all so far," they declared.

Surface mining gangs and prospecting parties have deserted the field in many districts, the bush fliers admitted, but this has been offset by increased activities in the major producing mines.

In some areas passenger service has improved with hostilities as Canada's military forces are augmented by rugged northern miners. This new source of revenue works both ways because new employees must be flown in to the mines to replace those who have enlisted.

The call of the Royal Canadian Air Force, with its promise of new adventure in the air, has been answered by a number of bush pilots and prospectors. But this depletion in the ranks of experienced airmen has not impaired the efficiency of the bush companies, say their customers in the wilds north of steel.

Instead, the vacancies have allowed many youthful air aspirants to become full-fledged pilots and air engineers—positions which had eluded many of them in peace-time.

Scene Of Earthquake

Is One Of Turkey's Most Fertile And Productive Areas

The northern Anatolia region where a series of earthquakes have killed thousands and crumbled cities is one of Turkey's most fertile and productive areas.

Some of the cities hardest hit by the shocks are on a new railway line, the final link of which was completed only last September.

Samsun, badly damaged, has a population of 35,000 and is the largest of Turkey's black sea ports.

The National Geographic Society describes Erzurum, reported destroyed, as in the centre of plateau land, surrounded by orchards and gardens. A town of 20,000 persons, Erzurum's industries are chiefly cotton and silk processing. It has some military significance because of the location there of large barracks, a supply base and army hospital.

Sivas, another town shaken by the quakes, has a population of 34,000. In Roman times it was one of the leading cities of Asia Minor and during the 15th century it was the scene of a massacre when thousands of its defenders were buried alive by the Mongol conqueror, Tamerlane.

Gophers Spread Plague

Alberta Will Undertake Campaign To Exterminate Pests

Campaign to exterminate plague-carrying gophers from highly-infested sections of Alberta will be undertaken in the spring, declares E. H. Strickland, professor of entomology in the University of Alberta.

Gophers are carrying the same disease that was known as the bubonic or "black" plague in the 16th century, and which killed 25 per cent of Europe's population. One Albertan died from the disease last year.

Police gas will be used to kill the rodents over a large area in southern districts of the province, in a campaign that is to be conducted jointly by the Dominion and provincial departments of health.

The gas will be fed into the gopher holes through long tubes.

Cannon Salutes Cancelled

An order has been sent to all saluting points in Canada cancelling, for the duration of the war, all cannon salutes. This means the 19-gun vice-regal salute, customarily fired at the opening of the House of Commons, will be omitted when the house opens. Ten 28. calibre salutes usually fired at the opening of the various provincial legislatures will be eliminated.

Canadian Musical Composition

Cash Awards Given By The Canadian Performing Right Society

Stating that within the last two years upwards of 75 Canadians from every province in the Dominion have competed for the scholarships and cash awards given by the Canadian Performing Right Society, H. T. Jamieson, president, announced the decision to offer similar awards this year.

He stated that the competition would be open to Canadians of either sex under 22 years of age and would close on March 31, 1940. Applications for entry must be obtained from the Society's office in the Royal Bank Building, Toronto.

"During the past two years, ten awards have been made: three in British Columbia; three in Ontario; one in Quebec; one in Manitoba; one in New Brunswick; and one in Prince Edward Island," Mr. Jamieson said.

The Board of Adjudicators will be composed this year of Sir Ernest MacMillan, Mus. Doc., and Leo Smith, Mus. Doc., of the University of Toronto; Captain J. J. Gagner, Mus. Doc., Montreal; Geoffrey Hewitt, F.R.C.O., Ottawa; Hector Charlesworth, Toronto, and H. J. Jamieson, president of the Canadian Performing Right Society.

Collective Security

Must Make Move To Protect The World Against Aggression

If there is to be democracy after the war is over, democracy must not be abandoned while the war is on. And when the end comes—the victory for democracy which the democracies anticipate—there must be something done to protect the world against a recurrence of the aggression which has resulted in the conflicts now in progress. There must then be a new drive for the establishment of collective security. The democracies of the world will have to take the lead in the establishment of a league of nations—by whatever name it may be called—with power to curtail the ambitions of dictators and aggressors. In the meantime, the spirit of democracy must be respected, not suppressed, within the democracies themselves. The thing for which the war is fought around must not be lost at home.—Toronto Star.

French Cavalry

Reported To Be Doing Good Work On The Western Front

The French cavalry, pronounced outmoded during the trench fighting of the first Great War, is doing its share of the work on the new western front.

Men on horseback have taken over scouting patrols in the no man's land between the Maginot lines and have proved faster and more efficient than men on foot.

"The cavalry will never die," said a general commanding one of the French mounted divisions. "Wars always begin and end with breaches in the lines, and horses can fill them better than men."

This general's division saw 15 days of action this fall on the northern flank of the front in the Moselle valley around Sierck and Perl, keeping contact with the enemy.

Patrols of six men each, carrying automatic rifles out ahead of the infantry and artillerymen. Their mission was to see that the fields and woods in front of the French lines were free and when they met the enemy to fall back and report to a command post.

During the German attack of Oct. 16 this division kept a check on the enemy advance and brought back reports which helped in stopping the offensive at the French frontier.

The general said their losses were less than would have been suffered by infantry patrols and their reports were faster. They had the added advantage, he said, of being able to rally forward alone, whereas infantry has to cover its flanks.

The Position Of Poland

Despair And Bitterness Is The Lot Of The Average Pole

Despair and bitterness is the lot of the average Pole in the German-occupied areas of partitioned Poland. Since the swift events which cost his nation its independence, he feels himself betrayed by his own government, exploited by his own overlords and endangered by a threatened westward-moving Communism.

There is not even hope for a German defeat in the West because he fears that a defeated Germany might withdraw from Poland and leave it open to Communism.

The average Pole feels his former military leaders huddled him into a false feeling of security with preparedness that was largely bluff and that they overlooked the possibility of a Russian-German understanding.

Poles complain their erstwhile military leaders fattened on comfortable jobs, were too lazy to study modern warfare and still thought in terms of the guerrilla fighting against the Russian invaders in 1920.

Even so—the argument runs—Germany could not have become Poland's master within a month except for the Russian "stab in the back".

Only after the Red Army began to move into Eastern Poland was any hope for saving the country abandoned, the Poles declare.

According To Dictionary

New Webster's Tells Best Way To Pronounce

Recent published American dictionaries have often and often with the "u" silent as in "listen," fasten, hasten. However, the new Webster's has this footnote under "often": "The pronunciation 'ot-ten,' until recently generally considered more or less illiterate, is not uncommon among the educated in some sections, and is often used in singing." But the pronunciation with the "u" silent is clearly indicated as the better usage.

The admonition to omit the "u" sound is cleverly contained in a memory verse found in C. A. Lloyd's "We Who Speak English."

If your speech you would soften, Be sure to say "off." For in this particular word, As in "castle" and "listen," And others like "gluten," The "u" should be seen but not heard.

Here is the first syllable has the "u" sound as in law, paw, saw. Correct pronunciation: AWFEN.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 14

THE PROBLEM OF FORGIVENESS

Golden text: Forgive us our debts as we also have forgiven our debtors. Lesson: Matthew 18:15-19:30. Devotional reading: Psalm 32:1-5.

Explanations and Comments

Unlimited Forgiveness. Matthew 18:21. Peter's question regarding the number of times he must forgive an offender naturally followed Jesus' words about the treatment of debtors. "Until seven times?" Peter suggested, his heart doubtless glowing with complacency, for was he not ready to go much further in forgiveness than was expected? Did not the Talmud say: "When a man sins against another, that other forgives him once, he forgives him a second time, he forgives him a third time, but the fourth time he does not forgive?"

"I tell you not until seven times," answered Jesus, "but until seventy times seven"—that is, times without number. Seven was with the Jews the number of perfection. "When time has run through seven days, it begins again; when time is complete, so no expression could more forcibly convey the impression of endlessness than the eternal iteration than 'seventy times seven' (Markus 16:7). There is no place for arithmetic in the grasp of forgiveness. Magnanimity is not calculating."

Home Of Julius Caesar

Interesting Ruins Discovered On Banks Of River Tiber

Ruins of what archaeologists believe was the home Julius Caesar provided for Cleopatra when the Egyptian queen came to Rome nearly 2,000 years ago have been found by modern grading banks of the River Tiber.

Elaborate frescoes and mosaics, stucco drains, pieces of marble, foundations of temples and even whole rooms were among the evidence of ancient structures unearthed in preparation for Rome's Universal exposition of 1942.

When these finds came to light, scholars took charge of the excavating and the frescoes of the story told by the findings have been pieced together by Amy Bernardy, Italian lecturer.

These frescoes, in which gaily decorated boats sailed seas filled with dolphins, octopi and other marine life, it was generations before the Navy rose to its level in these respects; and as for British armies in the field, they could have done with a Cook, amateur, though he was, in any war up to that of 1914-18.

Elaborate dwellings were built for her, or commanded, on the banks of the Tiber. Around her was the foreign colony of the day, composed largely of Egyptians, Greeks and Syrians.

Apparently she lived in luxury. There were frescoed rooms with heating apparatus, baths and temples. Remnants of glassware and pottery lamps were found, with figures of the Goddess of Fortune and her symbolic cornucopia on them.

The Egyptian gods, Isis and Serapis, appear on at least one boat in the many-colored frescoes. Images of racial, national or local divinities were placed commonly upon ancient monuments to designate their nationality.

One entire room from Cleopatra's supposed dwelling has been transported to the Terminus museum in Rome.

The possibility of reconstructing the boudoir where she may have received Caesar among modern Egyptian gardens on the banks of the Tiber is under consideration. In any case, the temple of the Goddess of Fortune will be rebuilt for the 1942 exposition.

One More Suggestion

Famous Editor Told Worried Woman How To Help Church

Horace Greely, renowned editor, received a letter from a woman who stated that her church's financial condition was most distressing. She recounted how they had tried every known device to raise money—fairs, strawberry festivals, a dunky party, oyster suppers, ice cream socials, turkey banquets, poverty societies, mock marriages, grab-bags, and all the others. She closed her letter asking, "What you be so kind as to suggest some new device to keep our struggling church from disbanding?"

The answer was brief, but comprehensive. "Try religion," wrote Greely.

PREVENTION OF SCURVY

One name, that of Captain James Cook, is pre-eminent in association with the affliction known as scurvy. Scurvy is a deficiency disease, that is, one in which the person affected lacks some necessary element in the diet such as fresh vegetables and lime or lemon juice. The scurvy patient shows weakness, anaemia, spongy gums, a tendency to mucocutaneous haemorrhages and a heavy hardness of the muscles of the calves and legs. In years gone by it was the particular bane of sailors who, on long voyages, were obliged to eat salt pork and to do without fresh vegetables. In some vessels one-half or even more of the crews were affected and many died of scurvy.

Captain Cook changed all this. He was born in a clay "bigin" in Yorkshire and at 27 joined the Royal Navy. Within a month his grave, firm, sensitive face so impressed the captain that Cook was made master's mate. Later he became captain of the "Endeavour," 388 tons. She was over-crowded, and unhygienic; she was not provided against scurvy. In this and other ships, Cook, cross-crossed the Indian, the Pacific and the South Atlantic in every sort of climate. He never lost a man from illness. All this was the more remarkable since Admiral Anson's squadron, barely a year at sea, lost 629 out of 921 men.

Cook insisted on fresh air, cleanliness and rational diet. With the diet departed the typhus; with fresh meat and vegetable, the malt-rot and lemon juice, departed the scurvy. It was generations before the Navy rose to its level in these respects; and as for British armies in the field, they could have done with a Cook, amateur, though he was, in any war up to that of 1914-18.

To Recruit Airmen

United States Wants To Fill 227,000 Enlistment Quota

United States army recruiting sergeants will take to the air next month in a super-selling effort to fill the 227,000 enlistment quota set by President Roosevelt.

Four flying recruiting units—two planes each—will tour the country from coast to coast.

The tour is another part of the campaign to "glamorize" the army, using all the high-pressure methods of modern American business. Youngsters chosen for service in the air corps these days may be given a free ride in a big bomber to their first station of duty. So many want to go that the recruits sometimes have to draw lots for the privilege.

For the first time, magazines soon will be carrying army advertisements, paid for by some commercial sponsor "in the interest of national defence."

GEORGE MARSH

CHAPTER XI—Continued

"Maple paddle, that's McQueen's," agreed Alan. "He had two men brought with him to Fort George. I saw them coming up the river. That's his paddle! And it was dropped in the river below the last lake, or it would have grounded there. I'll bet the Naskapi ambushed McQueen at the long rapids of the gorge, John."

The giant laughed loudly. "That would save us a heap of trouble if they had. I didn't figure he was so close on our heels."

"Neither did I! Did you, Noel? They're only average river men and we—"

"You two are the best white-water men I've ever seen and I've seen plenty," interrupted McQueen. "I don't see how they came so fast." Then the big man shook the broken blade savagely at the valley through which the Peterboro had come. "Come and take a look at this," he roared. "If you're still alive, come and get our dust after we've saved for it. But when you do, have your guns in your hands!"

"Golly, dad! that was pretty dramatic, wasn't it?" said Heather with a forced smile that belied the uneasiness in her eyes. "Uh-huh!" grunted the giant, studying Drummond's sketch map. "Mr. McQueen has asked for drama. He's going to get it! That right, boys?"

Alan and Noel nodded. Late the following afternoon, as the four men were plying around a bend, Napayo suddenly held his pole suspended in air, standing as though carved from wood, his head thrust forward, listening.

"Eet ees de gorge. Napayo say he feel very bad," Noel announced. Alan reached and patted the shaggy Indian, who stood in front of him holding his pole. "We will not go to the Gorge of the Spirits, Napayo," he said in Montana. "We will camp below. We will not let the spirits harm you."

Before them, for a mile or more, stretched an alluvial flat filled with sand-bars where the river, leaving the gorge above, suddenly widened to flow through a basin flanked by sandy shores. Above and beyond the shores extended wooded terraces to lift at last into barren hills.

"Here it is, Alan!" cried McCord excitedly, just as Aleck described it! These sand-bars and gravel beds have been washed down here for centuries! We're going to find gold here, boy, gold!"

"There's the spruce to build the sluice boxes!" cried Alan infected with John's excitement, pointing to the wooded terraces.

"Most of those bars can be free panned without the trouble of handling so much gravel by sluicing. That's where Aleck got most of his nuggets—big as cranberries!"

"Gosh, dad! I'm excited!" laughed Heather. "Think of it, gold in those sand-bars! If we only get back with it!"

Napayo's black eyes shone with a hidden fear as he stared through his mop of hair at the distant narrowing of the river where the stream left the gorge and spread out over the shallow bars. He was approaching the Gorge of the Spirits, tabu among his people for two generations. The wrath of the spirits of the Naskapi and the Eskimo whose bones lay on these sandy shores would vent itself on these white men and on the girl with hair like the sun. But these people were his friends—had saved his life. What terrified eyes he took up his paddle and followed the others up the slower water of the wide flat.

So great was the evident distress of the Naskapi, and so grave the dark features of Noel, that, a half mile below the foot of the gorge, Alan turned in to the gravelly shore. On the first timbered terrace above the river, they made camp in the spruce. After supper he took the Naskapi and Noel aside for a talk while John McCord peddled the canoe among the sand-bars examining with his prospector's eyes the nature of the alluvial deposit brought down by the river.

Alan impressed upon the two Indians the fact that the Naskapi who had brought gold nuggets to Chino had escaped the bad medicine of the spirits because they had not gone near the gorge. Napayo would not be asked to go near the gorge. He would hunt caribou, spear salmon and make snowshoes and clothing. They would camp where they were safe from the danger of the demons.

Napayo seemed somewhat relieved, then Alan put an arm over Noel's shoulder, led him to one wide and suspended in air, standing as though carved from wood, his head thrust forward, listening.

"Eet ees de gorge. Napayo say he feel very bad," Noel announced. Alan reached and patted the shaggy Indian, who stood in front of him holding his pole. "We will not go to the Gorge of the Spirits, Napayo," he said in Montana. "We will camp below. We will not let the spirits harm you."

a menace—a threat of evil. She looked back and noticed Rough and distrustfully digging in the pebbles and sand. Presently he had something in his teeth—something rounded and thin and white, like a large shell.

"Look, what's Rough got?" she shouted to Alan.

Alan went to his dog, followed by the girl, and took the thing Rough held in his jaws. Heather glanced at it and turned away. It was the bleached and weathered frontal bone of a human skull.

CHAPTER XII.

It was already August by John McCord's record. The smaller lakes of the high plateau closed in October while the swift streams and big rivers remained open until later, but he knew that the water of the River of Skulls would be so cold and carry so much slush and young ice from above that it would block their sluices and make running most difficult in the early part of the month. So two short months were all the prospectors could count on, in which to wash from the sands the gold dust and nuggets they had come so far and toiled so hard to reach.

Having lived largely on fish coming down the Koksoak they were now ravenous for red meat. Therefore Noel and Napayo were to start at once on a hunt into the barrens.

For Alan and John there was much to be done; spruce to be cut and split into slabs for sluice boxes through which to wash the river sand for the fine gold it held; sea trout netted and salmon speared and smoked when the run from the salt water began; and when the hunters had sufficient chocolate-and-white skins of the pie-bald, fawn caribou, they were winter parkies, shirts and leggings maple-tanned and mittens to be made for the men were all in rags from the hard portages of the Koksoak. Then, because they had rightly anticipated an absence of large birch on the big river, the three birch slabs they had carried all the way down on the floor of the Peterboro, must be thinned, steamed at one end for the curved bow and lashed to cross poles, to make the long toboggan sled which was to carry the hundreds of pounds of food for themselves and the dogs together with the gold, if they hoped ever again to reach the cache at the head of the river.

Until the ice in the river blocked the sluicing and the sands and gravel began to freeze, there would be little rest in the camp below the Moaning Gorge. And all the time over the heads of those who toiled with rifle at the sides would be the constant menace of the Naskapi who would now not hesitate to cross the dead line on the Nipiv to reach the canoe that had passed down the Koksoak—all the time, the knowledge that Jim McCord, if he were still alive, was waiting for their return over the river ice.

Has Life Job

Woman Is Responsible For Flag On

During the recent anniversary of the Eiffel Tower in Paris on a woman was specially interested although she kept in the background.

Her job for life is to keep the flag flying at the top, nearly 1,000 feet above the ground. Every morning rain or shine, she raises it. Every sunset she lowers it. If it has been damaged in any way she must repair it before sunrise. The woman has been doing this for 35 years.

Drama Of The Air

Flying Officers Blasted Their Lives To Save Their Machine

Flying over the Atlantic, four hours out from Newfoundland, Captain Donald Bennett and First Officer Thos. Farnsworth risked their lives to save the Imperial Airways flying-boat Cabot, an official report reveals.

The drama, which took place late in September, lay buried until now in the telex cables and forms report these trans-Atlantic flyers made at the end of each trip.

Bennett, Australian-born commander of the Cabot, said that he and Farnsworth, when 15 per cent of their oil had escaped through a leak, crawled to a tank in the wing. "We found that a rivet had come out of the tank, but we patched it up with a jointing composition," he reported. "Then Farnsworth rigged up a light inside the wing and this enabled us to inspect the repair at frequent intervals and make certain that it was all right."

"We could just get through the aperture, which was three feet six inches."

The Cabot flew on normally and despite the trouble reached Foynes, Eire, safely in 11 hours and 50 minutes. She was making one of a series of experimental flights over the Atlantic.

Food For French Army

Abundance And Quality Cause Surprise Among German Prisoners

German prisoners captured in France have given the following as approximately the daily meals served to the German army:

Breakfast—"Tea," skimmed milk, sugar, bread and jam, the latter being much adulterated with carrots and other roots. The "tea" is the produce of German hedgerows, being an infusion of the leaves of the blackberry bush, wild strawberry and other substitutes.

Midday Meal—Hot soup, containing beef and vegetables, a large ration of potatoes, black bread of a better quality than civilians have, followed by pudding or "quark," a tasteless, soft cheese with practically all the fat extracted.

Afternoon Meal—"Tea" again replaces coffee, which is unobtainable in Germany.

Evening Meal—Sausage, hard cheese, margarine, very occasionally butter on black bread, with three-quarters of a pint of beer.

The prisoners gazed open-mouthed at the abundance and quality of the French army food provided for them.

Doubtful Himself

"Who was our first President?" asked the American lawyer, hoping to test the intelligence of a witness.

"Washington," replied the witness. "Right! And who was our second President?"

"John Adams."

"Correct!"

There was a pause.

"He's doing fine," whispered a friend to the lawyer. "Why don't you keep on?"

"I'm not sure who was the third myself."

Heating Power Of Sun

Scatter Coal Dust On Ice To Draw Solar Rays

A suggestion that Admiral Richard E. Byrd experiment with the heat-generating powers of the sun by scattering coal dust from an Antarctic mine over the south pole regions was made.

In a report before the American Meteorological Society, meeting in conjunction with the American Association for the advancement of Science, Dr. Helmut Landsberg of Pennsylvania State college declared that coal dust, in a film one-fiftieth of an inch thick would absorb 80 per cent of the sun's rays. Ice itself absorbs only 10 per cent of the sun's radiation, reflecting away the other 90 per cent.

Blocks of ice covered with coal dust on an average winter day melted entirely within four hours while uncovered blocks shrank only 15 per cent.

An immediate practical application is already undergoing experiments on Pennsylvania highways. In addition to cinders placed on Mountain grades to prevent skidding the thin coal dust film—waste coal from Pennsylvania mines—also is being laid down. It already proved efficient on test strips in preventing ice formation during the daytime.

"At a time when men are wrangling for territory one might at least ask the question whether it would not be better while to recover some land from the 'eternal' icefields of the polar regions," Dr. Landsberg declared. "While some might call large scale operations Utopian, it seems feasible to melt glacier tongues reaching into valleys by sprinkling them with coal dust, thus recovering large areas of land and at the same time increasing the hydroelectric power of rivers by stimulating their flow of water."

Since the polar regions govern the earth's weather with their generation of gigantic cold air masses "profound influences on the climate could be expected if it were possible to change the light reflecting power of such areas," Dr. Landsberg declared.

HOME SERVICE

EGG FLIES THROUGH AIR WITH GREATEST OF EASE

There's the trick shown in our picture—involving the Dissatisfied Egg.

Place on the table two egg cups and place together with small ends up. As you put an egg in one of the cups say, "Now this Dissatisfied Egg, which I call Elsie, like some women, she always wants to be where she isn't! Well, let's humor her!"

Then you blow sharply on the rim of the cup containing the egg and whoosh! into the other cup Elsie flies. Pocket her, and when a spectator wants to try his skill produce an egg. It won't budge. Why? Well, maybe you can guess from this clue. Eggs differ—especially with a little help from you!

To learn to do the Dissatisfied Egg and 41 other magic tricks—see our new 32-page booklet. Tells how to make coins melt away, glasses vanish, balloons change color, cigarettes rise at your command, do many more seemingly impossible feats which make you a hit at parties.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Professional Tricks for Amateur Magicians" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave., E., Winnipeg, Man.

Fight For Freedom

Spirit Of A People Cannot Be Permanently Crushed

When war comes it is natural to think in terms of guns, ammunition, battleships, military airplanes, war industries and other instruments of applied force. But these are not enough. To quote a recent commentator:

"No war can be won without optimism. It is just as important as cannon or guns. For, particularly in the critical hours, optimism helps us to overcome difficulties by brushing obstacles aside. We want to cultivate this optimism in all our people. What is better suited than art to instill and renew optimism in the souls of the people, our soldiers and workers? With us the saying that the muse is silent when the cannon roar finds no justification. . . Art is one of the sharpest spiritual weapons of war."

Any belligerent could profit by taking these principles to heart. In so far as they are true, a merely naked compulsion is ineffective. The spirit of a people cannot be permanently crushed, the burning of books does not destroy the ideas contained in them, the burning and banning of pictures does not dull the "spiritual weapons" of the art. Little nations survive the cruellest invasions, the bully must lose out in the end.

Airplanes and ships, built and destroyed, may be the material key to the present European conflict. But one must agree that the "spiritual weapons" are essential to victory.

And the "spiritual weapons," if one examines them carefully, are seen to be usable only by free men, who have gained moral strength by making their own decisions.

But did Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's minister of propaganda and enlightenment, from whom the quoted words are borrowed, really understand all that he was saying and implying? And if he did, would it not be the part of wisdom for him to slip quietly over the Swiss frontier?—New York Times.

450 B.C. IN ANCIENT EGYPT

The art of brewing was known and practised for many hundred years before the Christian era. In 450 B.C., we are told that the Egyptians being without vines, made a wine or beer from corn. Pliny and Helianus informed us that the Egyptians are thought to have derived their taste for "Zythum" (meaning a barley drink) "because it was necessary for human bodies."
